

UK School Trip, 4th June - 7th June, Bel Air Secondary School, (4e)

Presented by : Elia Id Dibe, Julie Miljavac, Thaïs Boiron and Andra-Maria Magurean

Day 1: Rochester

DAY 1, Tuesday, June 4th

Presented by: Elia Id Dibe

The most important cultural aspect was the visit of the city. Our guide was dressed in a traditional Victorian costume. In the visit of the city, the guide presented the life of Charles Dickens: at 12 years old, he was forced to work in a factory because his father was in prison. At the end of his life, Charles Dickens became Britain's best author.

The most interesting activity was the visit of the castle. It was destroyed and rebuilt and it is in UNESCO.

In the evening we ate pizzas, potatoes and muffins but we didn't eat with the family.

To conclude, the first day was instructive of the life of Charles Dickens because the visit was long and interesting.

Day 2: Oxford

DAY 2, Wednesday, June 5th

Presented by: Julie Miljavac

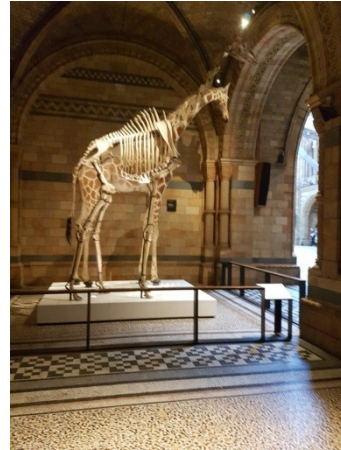

The most important cultural aspect was the University of Oxford and the Christ Church College because we saw the cathedral St Marie the Virgin and the Radcliffe library in the morning in the center of Oxford. It was amazing because there were very old monuments. We visited the Christ Church College in the afternoon in the university of Oxford next to the cathedral St Marie the Virgin and the Christ Church College inspired the Harry Potter movies. There are big shopping streets in Oxford with Harry Potter stores.

The most interesting activity was the visits of the church of the crossroads and the Christ Church College because the old style it was very beautiful and interesting. This church has a rough past because there was a fire and epidemic of plague. Christopher Wren has reconstructed the church and he was ennobled.

We didn't have an evening with the family but we had a good dinner because there was pasta.

To conclude, the day was very cool and in the end we were tired because the visits were long and fun.

Day 3: London

DAY 3, Thursday, June 6th

Presented by: Thaïs Boiron

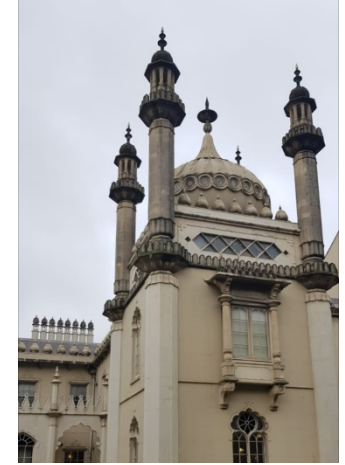

The most interesting activity was London Eye. We went to the London Eye, next to the river Thames, the tour lasted 40' in the afternoon and it was very beautiful because the view was breathtaking and we took many pictures. We saw London and there is a 4D experience: for me, it was interesting because we learnt how the London Eye was built.

The most important cultural aspect was the National History Museum. There were precious stones and dinosaur skeletons. We could visit it freely during the morning until noon. The National History Museum is located in the center of London, not very far from Baden Powell's house.

The evening with the family was constructive. There were 2 dogs, 1 cat, 3 girls 1 boy and a baby. We ate a pasta gratin and it was delicious and very tasty!

To conclude, the day was very interesting and funny. I love London!

Day 4: Brighton

Day 4, Friday, June 7th

Presented by: Andra-Maria Magurean

The most important cultural aspect was the Royal Pavilion because it was amazing. We saw it in the noon, Georges IV had it build, it was a palace with a oriental architecture and it was good because they were very tall and impressive.

The most interesting activity was the greyhounds races. We saw the races i the morning and it was raining. It was interesting because there were 6 competitors and one race lasted 15 or 20 seconds. In my opinion it was cool.

We didn't have an evening with the family because we returned to France but we had breakfast. We ate cereal and toast but not with the family : it was good.

To conclude, the day was excellent because we had seen greyhounds races and the Royal Pavilion and I think it was great and impressive.

Thank you for your attention and your time!
