Introduction: beginning of the first day

We took the bus at 6:00am. We ate a little breakfast during the bus ride. During the trip, Betty (our guide) told us a bit about England. After a while, we took the Eurotunnel and we finally arrived in England. I wish the way to England was faster because we ate a bit late when we arrived to Rochester.

First Day: Rochester

When we arrived to Rochester, we looked for a place to eat our picnic and we finally found a nice spot behind Rochester Castle. We had some time to go shopping in small English stores. In my opinion, the most interesting aspect of the day was this first shopping moment: it was the first time we were independent in a foreign country. After that, we visited Rochester Cathedral and it was impressive. Then we went on a guided tour of Rochester, we saw some historical places like Vines Hall and learnt more about the city's past. Finally, we took the car to meet our host families, we were stressed and excited, luckily my friends and I were really happy with our family.

Second Day: London

When we went to London, we went through St James Park where we saw some squirrels, we arrived at Buckingham Palace and we took many pictures. We ate at Covent Garden where we had some time to go shopping, the food was not excellent but however, we ate it. Next we went to the London Eye, it was extraordinary to see London from high above even if we are afraid of heights. After the London Eye, we went to see some graffiti, they were beautiful. I wish we had arrived sooner because we didn't have so much time to visit the National Gallery.

Last Day: Brighton

During the day in Brighton, we walked a bit on the beach, there were many souvenir shops but we didn't buy anything. We also visited the Royal Pavilion, it was magnificent to see all the styles in one palace. Afterwards, we spent some time shopping, wandering through local boutiques and popular stores. I wish we had spent more time there to go shopping by ourselves. After that, we went back to the Eurotunnel and we returned home.

Conclusion:

To conclude, this trip to England was very good. I wish it were longer but I enjoyed it and the host family was adorable.

This trip makes me want to discover more about England.
